

On the 24th of June in 1941, a group of youths from Chinatown were fortunate enough to meet Joe DiMaggio before a Yankee game and present him with a Buddha as a good luck charm to continue his game hitting streak. At the time, he was up to 35 consecutive games.

Fortunately, during the game, he was able to extend his streak by hitting a single on his last time at bat in the 8th inning. As everyone knows, his hitting streak continued until he reached 56 games.

Does anyone recognize the guys in the group?
